ASCE STUDENT SYMPOSIUM

About the student symposium

The The ASCE Indiana-Kentucky Student Symposium is an annual gathering of civil engineering students from universities across the region. Through a variety of competitions, students demonstrate their technical knowledge, creativity, problem-solving abilities, and teamwork by applying engineering principles to real-world challenges.

In addition to the competitions, the symposium offers professional networking opportunities, educational workshops, and social events that connect students with faculty and industry leaders. By supporting the student symposium, sponsors play a direct role in developing future civil engineers while gaining valuable visibility among highly motivated students, educators, and professionals within the civil engineering community.

See the event website and current sponsors here.

WHY SPONSOR?

The ASCE Indiana-Kentucky Student Symposium brings together hundreds of civil engineering students from across the region to compete, collaborate, and develop their professional skills through technical challenges, networking opportunities, and educational events.

Your sponsorship helps make these experiences possible while demonstrating your organization's commitment to the future of the civil engineering profession. In return, sponsors receive valuable visibility among students, faculty, and industry professionals from across the region.
